

State Superfund Section

The State Superfund Section addresses sites that are not eligible for the federal Superfund program. Members of this section identify sites where a release or threatened release of hazardous substances has occurred and provide oversight for the investigation and remediation of the sites. They also provide immediate response to environmental emergencies. If a site represents an imminent threat to human health and the environment and a responsible party cannot be found or is unable to act, the State Superfund Section may take a direct role in conducting the investigation and remediation at the site.
